Supporting you once
Partners in Recovery
(PIR) concludes

As you are most likely aware, Partners in Recovery (PIR) is transitioning to the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) from July 1, 2019.

While this means changes to your service, you will still be able to access ongoing support in your recovery journey.

Eligible for NDIS

If you have been found eligible for NDIS, this is what you can expect.

- 1 Accepted into NDIS.
- 2 Planning meeting with NDIS planner to determine your needs.
- 3 A plan is approved, to suit your individual circumstances.
- 4 Your PIR support coordinator will assist you to implement the plan.

From July 1, 2019, you will be transitioned to the new services identified in your NDIS plan.

Ineligible for NDIS

If you have been found ineligible for NDIS, here are the next steps.

- 1 You will be eligible for the Commonwealth 'Continuity of Support' program, 'CoS' for short.
- 2 You will continue to receive support, however your existing arrangements may be different and may change over time.
- 3 Your PIR support worker/facilitator will advise of your options under CoS and support your transition to new services.
- 4 July 1, 2019, you will be transitioned to the new CoS arrangements.

Accessing other services

If you have chosen not to test your eligibility for NDIS, there are other services you may be able to access.

There are a number of services being offered on the Gold Coast, which range from low intensity community groups to severe and complex and suicide prevention.

Your PIR support worker/facilitator can help you match the services and supports that that might be suitable for your ongoing needs.

There is also a central intake number, that can provide advice about which mental health program may best benefit you.
